The examiners shall submit their viva-voce report jointly to the University in the format provided in Appendix-X. In case one or more examiners refuse to come for conducting viva-voce examination for any reason, the President may appoint another examiner for conducting the viva-voce.

The report of viva voce examination shall then be placed before the President for approval, and if the recommendation is found positive, provisional degree certificate may be issued to the candidate and the degree shall be conferred after approval of the Academic Council and Board of Management.

The revised and/or modified thesis shall be sent to the same two examiners. If, even then, any one of the external examiners recommends further modification/rejection, the thesis will be rejected and the registration shall automatically stand cancelled.
- (vii) If both the external examiners recommend the rejection of the thesis, it will be rejected and the registration shall automatically stand cancelled.
- (viii) The period of six months/one year spent in resubmission of the thesis after modification shall be counted from the date on which the candidate is informed about the same and this period shall not be counted to compute the maximum period for submission of thesis.

- (ix) If viva-voce report is unsatisfactory the viva-voce examination shall be normally reheld after a period of three months from the date of first viva-voce examination on payment of the requisite fee. If the candidate fails to get a satisfactory report in the second viva-voce examination, the thesis shall be rejected and his/her registration shall automatically stand cancelled.
- (x) Following the successful completion of the evaluation process, the University shall submit the soft copy of the thesis to the UGC within 30 days for hosting the same in INFLIBNET.

Policy on Plagiarism

The University aims to foster and maintain an ethos of honesty and academic integrity. All staff and research scholars have an obligation to act in an ethical manner, consistent with the requirements of academic integrity. Tanta University has a well-defined policy on plagiarism in place in order to avoid acts of academic dishonesty. Plagiarism is a serious academic offence that may be easy to commit unintentionally, it is defined by the act not the intention. It is the responsibility of all research scholars to familiarize themselves with the University's policy on plagiarism. The research scholars are advised to seek guidance from their teachers/ staff member/supervisor

Scope

This policy applies to Synopsis for Ph.D./dissertations/thesis/project reports submitted by research scholars of Ph.D.

Definition of Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined as the passing off of another person's work as if it were one's own, by claiming credit for something that was actually done by someone else. Plagiarism is an act of fraud committed knowingly or unknowingly by stealing someone else's work, idea (both scientific and literary work) and/or published materials. The act of plagiarism can be manifested in the form of publishing someone else's work, audio and video broadcasting, or circulation of copied words and images, ideas and opinions, discoveries, artwork and music, recordings or computer generated work (like circuitry, software or computer programmes, websites-internet content).

Plagiarism takes many forms. Some common types of plagiarism include:

- (a) Copying and Pasting (copying and pasting portions of text from online journal articles or websites without proper citation)
- (b) Downloading or buying research papers (Downloading a free paper from a web site or paying to download a paper and submitting it as your own work).
- (c) Paraphrasing of another's work by simply changing a few words or altering the order of presentation without clear identification, appropriate reference and acknowledgement.
- (d) Copying or submitting someone else's written or creative work (in the form of words, images, ideas, opinions, graphics, formula, discoveries, invention, artwork, design, music, recordings, choreography, photographs, software, computer programmes).
- (e) Submitting a work/document that had been submitted previously. Submitting a work that had been prepared by falsification / fabrication of data.
- (f) Submitting a collaborative work without obtaining consent from the concerned collaborator.
- (g) Submitting a cross language content translation and use without reference to original work.
- (h) Using work of a third party (for a fee/free) and represented by a research scholar as his or her own work (Ghost writing).
- (i) Indulging in acts of collusion and purloining—
  - (i) Collusion-Different research scholars submit work that is so alike in content that similarity goes beyond coincidence. This is contrary to the declaration given by the research scholar that the given work is their own and has not previously been submitted for assessment for award of a degree.

(ii) Under purloining form of plagiarism, a research scholar takes information/text/data without the consent or knowledge of another research scholar and submits it as his or her own.

(j) There are instances that the sources are cited but it is still considered plagiarized. For example:

(i) The writer mentions an author's name for a source, but neglects to include specific information on the location of the material referenced (forgotten footnote).

(ii) The writer provides inaccurate information regarding the sources, making it impossible to find them.

(iii) The writer properly cites a source, but neglects to put in quotation marks, text that has been copied word-for-word, or closes to it.

(iv) The writer properly cites all sources, paraphrasing and using quotations appropriately. The catch? The document contains almost no original work.

Accordingly, plagiarism is not only limited to copying someone else's work completely, or in part, but also tweaking of a portion or portions from several sources so as to make it read as original work. In some instances, copying from one's own work can be an act of plagiarism, if the published material is copyright protected and was previously transferred to a publication house.

How to detect Plagiarism?

It is the prime responsibility of faculty members and research scholars to distinguish between original content and plagiarized work. The detection of plagiarism is a judgment to be made by a person who understands the subject and who is also aware of the definition of plagiarism. Common methods of detection of plagiarism are

i. A portion of work or whole of it is found belonging to another author and a formal complaint is received about it.

ii. A sudden change is found in the style of writing of a text inconsistent with the style used in the entire text- reported by examiner / evaluator.

iii. Under Software based detection a soft copy of the work is uploaded in plagiarism detection software. The common material content is found in submitted work and the original work in the database.

Software Settings

While performing the plagiarism check using software the following optional settings may invariably be set to reduce the percentage of matching.

(a) Exclude Quotations, methodology, legal quotes, bibliography, and phrases.

- (b) Exclude Small Matches up to 10 word counts. (This is to exclude the matching of common phrases and established facts related to the topic which may come across the documents)
- (c) Exclude Small similarity less than 1%.
- (d) Exclude Mathematical, statistical and scientific Formula
- (e) Exclude the title of the paper, name of the institute, department, author name etc. from screening to reduce the percentage of matching.
- (f) Exclude one's own published work

Materials to be screened

It is mandatory to screen through plagiarism detection software the Ph.D. theses, postgraduate dissertations, project reports before submission to Punjabi University, Patiala i.e. before presenting the pre-submission seminar.

The faculty, staff and research scholars are also encouraged to screen all the research papers they prepare to communicate to national and international journals and research proposals/reports to different agencies.

Examples of Fabrication

- (a) In the social sciences, a researcher/interviewer completing a questionnaire for a fictitious subject that was never interviewed.
- (b) In the biological sciences, the creation of a data set for an experiment that was never actually conducted. The practice of adding fictitious data to a real data set collected during an actual experiment for the purpose of providing additional statistical validity.
- (c) In clinical research the insertion of a clinical note into the research record to indicate compliance with an element of the protocol.

Guidelines on Do's:

- (a) Only One's original work to be submitted,
- (b) Precise and accurate citation of others' work,
- (c) Any downloaded information from internet to be appropriately created/referenced,
- (d) Submitted material should not contain any artwork, pictures, and graphics from someone else's work and such materials should be authentic with no use of others' electronic storage media.

Guidelines on Don'ts:

The following must be avoided unless source of material/information is credited appropriately:

- (a) Direct or indirect copying,
- (b) Any act of translation without proper accreditation,
- (c) Paraphrasing others' work,
- (d) Tweaking and piecing together work of others,

(e) Resubmission of one's own or someone else's work,

(f) Claim of a collaborative work without consent from the concerned collaborator(s) (includes unauthorized collaboration and claiming a collaborative work as an independent one or vice versa),

(g) Ghost writing — i.e. writing a document(s) on someone's behalf.
